Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-14 and 16-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lisowski, SR. (US 2003/0153377) in view of LeStrange et al (US patent No. 5,470,079).

a. As per claim 1, 6, and 14, Lisowski discloses a gaming machine comprising a housing 10 (Fig. 1); a master controller 22 (Fig. 2) for controlling a game of chance and to distinguish between different types of credits (paragraph 0025), the game of chance comprises receiving a wager, determining a game outcome and award, and displaying the game outcome (paragraph 0010); and a display device 12 (Fig. 1). Lisowski does not explicitly disclose restricted credit and awarding at least one award in restricted credits. However, LeStrange discloses accepting and awarding restricted credits (col. 10, lines 41-43, 49-52 and 61-62; and col. 9, lines 21-24). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include a program for accepting and awarding restricted credits of LeStrange in the gaming machine of Lisowski in order to encourage the player to play a game using restricted coupon.

b. As per claim 2, LeStrange discloses non-cashable restricted credits (col. 10, lines 49-50).

c. As per claim 3-4, LeStrange discloses an input mechanism and an output mechanism (col. 10, lines 34-54, 66-67; and col. 11, lines 1-4).

d. As per claim 5, storing non-cashable credits together with the cashable credit would have been well known to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made.

e. As per claim 7, Lisowski discloses interconnecting gaming machines (paragraphs 0035). Further, connecting gaming machines via a server would have been well known.

f. As per claim 8, LeStrange discloses including a printer, a ticket acceptor and a card reader (col. 10, lines 16-20).

g. As per claim 9-11, awarding credits based on a percentage of cashable win, an amount loss during a play, a progressive award, etc., awarding cashable credits and paying out different amount of credits depending on the type of cashable or non-cashable credits would have been well known to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made.

h. As per claim 12-13, Lisowski discloses determining the amount of credits based on a pay table internal to the machine (paragraph 0005). Further, implementing the pay table internal or external to the machine would have been obvious and design choice.

i. As per claim 16-24, refer to discussion in claims 1-2, 6-7, 9-10, and 12-13 above.

Art Unit: 3713

j. As per claim 25, LeStrange discloses wagering restricted credits (col. 10, lines 41-43 and 49-52).

k. As per claim 26-27, displaying available credits by credit type or in one or more cash denomination would have been well known.

l. As per claim 28-30, converting restricted credit winnings to cash or cashable credits at a discount face value, or to merchandise would have been obvious design choice according to a designer's preference for converting credits from one type to another.

4. Claims 1-14 and 16-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Adams et al (US 2003/0083943).

As per claim 1-14 and 16-30, Adams discloses a gaming machine capable of accepting and awarding different types of credits including restricted credits as claimed (paragraphs 0027, 0040, 0073, 0049-0050, and 0053). Adams does not explicitly disclose determining an award corresponding to a pay table. However, using a pay table for determining an award would have been well known to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to implement a pay table to the gaming machine of Adams in order to facilitate determining winning amount.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed on June 23, 2004 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action. Any response to this final action should be mailed to:
